COVERS RICHEST GOLD AREA IN CALIFORNIA

Vol. 13, No. 85. The County Seat Paper NEVADA CITY, CALIFORNIA The Gold Center MONDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1939.

From the Californian, March 15, 1848:
The Liberty of the Press consists in the right to publish the Truth, with good motives and for justifiable ends. —Alexander Hamilton.

Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

It is an outrage that busy citizens should be called upon to spend time and money in battling against crackpot initiative measures, such as Ham & Eggs. But unless this is done, unless the electorate is thoroughly roused to the menace that such vicious bills hold for the commonwealth in event of being adopted by the unthinking and the congentially lazy and thriftless, we will certainly lose far more than the time and money volunteered to defeat them at the polls.

Not a single organization in California of any standing in public respect has thus far endorsed Ham & Eggs. The only organizations that have declared themselves in favor of this bankrupting proposal are the CIO and various communist organizations. As for the CIO, everyone at all acquainted with labor conditions knows that John L. Lewis is making war on the communists that direct the policies of his unions. To all practcal Ham and Eggs endorsement thus far has received is that of the communists.

President Roosevelt, the United States Comptroller, former Attorney General U. S. Webb, present Attorney General Earl Warren, and even Governor Olson, have condemned Ham & Eggs as a measure destructive of the economy and the very government of California. There is no reputable newspaper in California supporting the measure; all damn it. Farmers organizations are against it. State employees associations are against it. Boards of Supervisors, throughout the state, including our own Nevada County board, have denounced Ham and Eggs.

Citizens who have the deepest faith in democracy probably feel the most resentment against the Ham & Eggs promoters, because of their brazen affrontry in attempting to establish themselves, or one of them, as dictator—think of it—above the governor, above the state courts, above the legislature, and until 1944, above the people themselves. It is with a warm feeling of shame that any intelligent unstanding citizen must regard the fact that several hundred thousands of voters have registered on the sucker list of Messrs. Owens and Kindig. Because once that list is compiled it constitutes a perennnial threat to the security of every tax payer in California.

The thing that makes our thinking voters squirm, it the fact that even if Ham & Eggs is defeated once more on November 7, the same old wolf in sheep's clothing, with his fleece only slightly dirtier, can come trotting back for another special election next year. Messrs. Owens and Kindig can immediately go to work on another initiative, signing up the same sucker list again, and again mulct the tax payers of California another million or more for another election.

This brings us to the nub of the matter. The legislature should raise the number of signatures that must be affixed to a petition for an initiative or referendum to 25 or 30 per cent of the electorate, and at the same time, should place a limit on presenting legislation in which the same principles or purpose is involved. California should at least be given a vacation of five years before another Ham & Eggs proposal is permitted to be placed as an initiative mesaure on a state ballot.

Citizens with the welfare of California at heart should start now to organize in order that when the legislature meets in January a program of legislative restrictions on the abuse of our initiative and referendum laws can be presented for enactment. It is high time brakes were applied to rackets of the Ham & Eggs variety. Conscienceless rascals should not be permitted to cozen any group of our citizens, let alone our poor and aged folks, through misuse of our election laws. It should be stressed that this legislation is of immediate and vital importance. We have no doubt that there are many scoundrels abroad who have already observed how rich and easy a living can be had in California by working on the sensibilities of a sympathetic and generous people, so generous in fact that on the first of January a new law will be in effect under which those in need, 65 years old or older, will receive $40 per month. Under the law they may hold as much as $3,000 worth of property and may earn as much as $15 per month without deductions from the $40 pension. This is the highest pension paid in the United States. How foolish it woud be for the beneficiaries of the best pension system in the world to jeopardize it for the chaos of Ham & Eggs.

EIGHT HUNDRED SEEK ADMITTANCE TO STATE BAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Seeking membership in the state's legal profession, almost 800 students of law schools from New York to California this week will attempt to demonstrate their qualifications to become attorneys and counsellors at law.

The total of 793 prospective lawyers, the largest group since 1933, took the California bar examination given simultaneously at Los Angeles and San Francisco, President Gerald H. Hagar of the State Bar announced. Starting today the quiz lasts for three days.

The unusually large number of applicants was largely the result of the State Bar's action in removing restrictions against re-examination of students who had failed on more than one previous test Hagar pointed out. An additional reason for the increase is believed to have been due to the change in the examination date from September to October, giving students more time to complete their preparation.

The examination, given under the direction of the State Bar's Committee of Bar Examiners, covered all important fields of the law and consisted of questions prepared by leading members of the bar. Since 1931 State Bar officials and deans of the state's law schools have been cooperating closely in a determined movement to improve the standard and quality of training for law practice.

"The public has a right to expect that all persons admitted to practice law shall be properly equipped, both by legal training and high moral character, for the trust reposed in them as members of the legal profession," the bar president declared. "The State Bar is constantly vigilant to see that these requirements are met."

P. T. A. CHOOSES CLASS MOTHERS

At the last meeting of the Elementary School P. T. A. several plans were made for the coming season. Mrs. W. Kensinger took the slogan, "Enrich Living Through Self Realization" and arranged her program around it.

Class mothers were chosen according to the grades: First graders, Miss Gertrude Goyne, instructor, will have as a class mother, Mrs. Howard Penrose; Mrs. Foley's room will have Mrs. L. G. Lageson; Miss Savory Ford, Mrs. E. Stone; Mrs. Mary Warnecke, Mrs. DeWitt Nelson; Mrs. Mabel Flindt, Mrs. Noren; Miss Ruth Tamblyn, Mrs. Champie; Mrs. Rlan, Mrs. Bonebrake; Miss Ruth Hogan, Mrs. Lester Gregory; Miss Virginia Ramm, Mrs. Herboth; Mrs. Elza Kilroy, Mrs. C. J. Tobiassen and Principal Cecil Klee, Mrs. M. Jones.

The class room mothers have taken charge of the membership drive. Because of the girls and boys in Mrs. Ryan's room winning highest record of members the first week, a second prize was awarded for the next highest quota.

NOTICE TO VOTERS

County Clerk R. N. McCormack today mailed notices to all registered voters of the county on the coming special election, Tuesday, November 7.

Mrs. Lester Hubbard and small son returned Saturday from a two weeks visit in San Francisco with Mrs. Hubbard's sister, Mrs. Davis. While there Mrs. Hubbard's son underwent on operation for removal of tonsils and odenoids. He is making a normal recovery.

Mrs. Z. Zanocco and son and daughter, Leon and Lily Duceschi, spent the past week end in San Jose visiting relatives.

SCHOOL PARTY ON HALLOWE'EN

The Nevada City elementary school P. T. A. association are preparing an interesting time for the students during the coming Hallowe'en period, Tuesday afternoon and evening, October 31.

Principal Klee states the pupils in the first, second and third grades will have a party in the newly built shed in the rear of the school building Tuesday afternoon. In the evening the fourth and fifth graders will enjoy a party in the same place. The sixth, seventh and eighth grades will enjoy a party in Seaman's Lodge in Pioneers Park.

The Parent Teacher Association is relying on the good sportsmanship of the boys and girls in giving these parties. They will be given a good time and in turn they are requested to refrain from any mischief about the town. If the parties are a success plans are to make them an annual affair.

H. U. MAXFIELD HITS OIL BILL

H. U. Maxfield, principal owner of the Sixteen-to-One mine in a letter to the Commonwealth Club says:

"For many years I was an active oil producer and have watched closelly the legislative bills looking to the control of the oil industry. I am not directly interested except as a citizen, but am opposed to the Atkinson Oil Control Bill because I believe it is not in the public interest and because its objective is not the conservation of oil.

"If the voter reads this entire bill carefully. I believe he will arrive at the same conclusion. I cannot take your time to prove this, paragraph by paragraph; I can only call your attention to certain fundamental facts which can not be controverted.

"Cement will not shut off water. It may obstruct but will not shut it off. Those of you who have water coming into a basement, know that the cement must be protected by water proof paint otherwise it will percolate into your basement. You can not do this with an oil well.

"When a well is drilled and cemented, the infiltration of water starts as soon as the oil pool is perforated, making larger and larger channels as time goes on. If you are to get the maximum amount of oil from that pool, you will energetically extract the oil. If you curtail this extraction, and even shut down these wells, the infiltration of water will continue and for each barrel of water that goes into this pool, a barrel of oil will be lost. If you don't pump it out, it will be driven into loose formations, following the line of least resistance and will be lost.

"If the price of cotton is too low, you can destroy part of the crop, or you can kill pigs for the same reason. If this results in a price too high for the consumers, you can remedy it next year. You can not do this with oil. If curtailing the production results in dissipating the oil, it is lost for all time.

"This bill is not in the public interest. Its primary object is not to conserve oil. It is to curtail production and to fix prices. It should be defeated.

"In the past the executives of the Standard Oil Company, many of whom have been my personal friends would not have approved the procedure directed by the Atkinson Oil Control Bill, even though the present executives of the company now actively campaign in behalf of its passage. As a stockholder of this company, I am firmly of the opinion that if the bill is passed, there will a tragic loss of oil with disastrous consequences to both the industry and the general public welfare.

"I regret that I feel compelled to oppose this bill."

(Signed) H. U. MAXFIELD.

LONE EAGLE MAY ESSAY FLIGHT TO WHITE HOUSE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The "dark horse" flashes across the finish line as a winner far more often in politics than at Tanforan or Santa Anita—due, in part, to the great American game of "build-up," but in even larger measure to the public's love of mystery and drama.

American voters like to take their politics with a dash of color and several dashes of entertainment.

Hence, don't be too surprised if Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—just a G. O. P. "dark horse" at the moment—should suddenly emerge as a serious contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940.

"Lucky Lindy," the lad who soloed the Atlantic and wowed a speechless nation, may soon be giving speeches to the same nation—and pledging to keep the boys out of the trenches. Strange as it may seem, some otherwise conservative Republican leaders—like former President Hoover—are said to be playing with the idea that "The Lone Eagle" might fly right into the White House, with the blessings and applause of a hero loving populace.

Don't sell Mr. Lindbergh short. The Democratic bigwigs in Washington already have started taking him seriously—as evidenced by the bitter blasts hurled his way after he took to the air against President Roosevelt's proposal to modify the arms embargo. And although Lindy professes disinterest, a young man who would gamble his life on a shot at flying the Atlantic might well be tempted to play a few chips on the gambling wheel of politics.

Switching from presidential to gubernatorial reverberations, there's a persistent report abroad that the Ham and Eggs pension brigade is only waiting for Nov. 8—the day after the special election—to launch a recall against Governor Culbert L. Olson.

No matter what the governor does, or doesn't in the closing days of the Ham and Eggs battle, the 30-Thursday promoters are said to have concluded that they can best keep their movement alive — and the shekels rolling in, by putting full steam behind the Olson recall drive.

And of all things, their most talked-about candidate against Mr. Olson is one N. T. Porter, who until a few weeks ago was housed in the governor's office at Sacramento as the Ham and Eggs "contact man." Mr. Porter, however, will take an awful blasting from the Olson forces if he once gets his head above the ramparts. Some years ago he was president of the National Thrift Corporation, which failed with losses of more than $2,000,000 to its 30,000 depositors. And the Olson boys can be depended upon to dig up the records.

There's more skullduggery and intrigue in the San Quentin flogging scandal, our spy advises, than honest, law-abiding citizens can possibly imagine. Whether the flogging stories are true or slightly-Hollywood, there's no doubt that they are being used in a daring attempt to force ouster of the prison management. And there's espionage—and counter espionage—in progress at the moment, with Governor Olson spying on the prison, and some of the prison directors spying on the governor. To sharpen the melodrama, the "cons" are plotting a first class riot—and there's trouble enough brewing to make 12-inch headlines!

That special session of the State Legislature, according to the grapevine, promises to become a hash-house special—with all of the leftovers of the regular session dished up in the stew. New taxes, state medicine, state power development, bigger relief appropriations and state insurance are all on the bill-of-fare!

When Upton Sinclair stepped out of political retirement a few days ago with a fervent appeal to California liberals to vote against Ham and Eggs, more than 50,000 votes changed hands, according to expert dopesters. Just five years ago—in 1934—Upton Sinclair was the biggest issue in California; the Messiah of his people. And even though his followers has dwindled since he quit the political arena, the man who led a million people can still muster plenty of votes. Don't discount him!

DREDGER STARTS OPERATION TUES. IN SCOTTS FLAT

Dredger operations in Scotts Flat, reported last Friday in the Nevada City Nugget, are expected to begin tomorrow. The dredger recently set up between the old Scotts Flat dam and the site for the new dam is owned by an Oroville company who are working the gravel on a royalty basis, the royalty going to the N. I. D. which owns the gravel.

Will Durbrow, general manager of the N. I. D., states that he is assured the dredging outfit is one of the most economical in use. It is reported profits can be made in 10c gravel, and he states that he is satisfied the gravel is at least of that value per cubic yard. He states that it is hoped enough will be realized in dredging operations to defray a part of the expense of erecting the new dam.

DWINDLING TRIBE DISCOVERED BY DR. PEV. MEIGS

BERKELEY, Oct. 23.—A vanishing tribe of aboriginal Indians in Lower California, whose customs and cultures had so infiltrated into those of the surrounding peoples that its identity was virtually lost, has been restored to anthropoligical history in a partial but clear cut manner through the efforts of Dr. Peveril Meigs, formerly investigator for the University of California, and now a member of the Chico State College factulty.

The tribe, which numbered only five families and thirty six individuals at the last count, had been given only a passing glance by previous investigators, and appeared to be in danger of slipping out of history altogether, until Dr. Meigs started his studies. His substantial record of the tribe is contained in a recent publication of the University of California Press.

The Kaliwas, as Dr. Meigs calls them, in agreement with present day prounnciation in the region, live for the most part near Arroyo Leon, in fairly remote country some 185 miles south of the international border. At one time the tribe spread over 13 rancherias in an area of about 1500 square miles, and numbered about 1300 persons, according to the extremely sketchy material made available to Meigs. Now this nearly lost tribe has dwindled to a handful with most of its history hidden in obscurity and with little to show for the commanding position it once held in the cultural life of the peninsula. None of the survivors can make the stone tools that the tribe once found so necessary to its existence. The standard diet of the remaining tribesmen is the usual Mexican diet. Only three principal informants remained in the period that Dr. Meigs lived among them, to supply threadbare and sometimes contradictory accounts of the development of the Kiliwa culture and the history of the race.

Mr. and Mrs. Don McGinnis of Chico are spending today in Nevada City visiting their many friends. Mr. McGinnis was formerly in the employ of Safeway stores in Nevada City. He also has mining property in the Quaker Hill district.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Mullen returned today from a two weeks vacation in Corona and Los Angeles. They found it very hot in Southern California and were glad to get home.

Max Solaro, fire truck driver, and one fire engine were called to the home of Mrs Jennie Preston Sunday to extinguish a chimney fire. No damage was reported.

ONE DUCK SHOT AND THE WIFE BAGS THAT ONE

Duck season opened Sunday and many local sportsmen went to the lowlands or high mountain lakes to kill some of these choice birds.

It remains for Mrs. Bill Buffington to make the record as she was the only one to get a shot in her party and brought down a fast flying duck. She really knows the thrill of killing her first bird overcoming many obstacles in her try. Her husband spent considerable time teaching her to shoot and when she got to the grounds the men struck off leaving her in the car. She got tired of this and went into the marsh.

She relates her experience of creeping up on some old decoys, finding them unpainted objects and wading here and there about the tule, pulling out one galosh after another in the almost waist deep mud and water, finally losing one of them. The other pulled off and she waded in her stocking feet for some distance. Although hunters were shooting all about her, she kept calm and when the real duck plummeted past her, she shot it.

She laughingly tells of wading waste deep to get her bird, which was peppered with shot. But this experience has made her all the more determined to try again.

Dick Lane and Tom Kistle motored to the high mountain lakes Sunday and returned with six fine mallard ducks. They waded through snow and in some places frost had raised the ground fully two inches.

BUCK STEW FOR HIGHWAY STAFF

The California State Highway Employees association, will hold their buck stew in Marysville Saturday evening, October 28. Many from this district will attend the annual event. Fred Garrison, past president of the association, has been chosen chairman of the event.

BEWARE BEARS! MEAT MAY CARRY TRICHINELLAE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Bears are subject to trichinellae infection, and those who eat the meat of these animals are in danger of contracting trichinosis, a severe and sometimes fatal disease commonly attributer to hogs.

This announcement is made by Dr. J. C. Geiger, clinical professor of epidemiology, and Dr. Michael Hobmairer, associate professor of comparatice pathology in the Unviersity of California, following four outbreaks of trichinosos from the eating of bear meat, involving 34 persons and causing three deaths. Only one of the outbreaks occurred in the bear habitat in Trinity county, the three others being in the San Francisco bay region One outbreak, involving two people, occurred in the home of a San Francisco physician.

Several animals and mammals, both domestic and wild, are susceptible to the trichinellae infection, the two doctors declare. Among these are dogs, cats, foxes, coyotes, badgers, wild species of cats and certain species of ferrets. The chief danger, insofar as bear meat is concerned, lies in the consumption of improperly prepared dried or jerked meat. The meat should not be eaten unless it is thoroughly cooked.

As a further precaution the doctors urged that if dogs or cats are to be destroyed, this should be done under the direction of the department of health. Carcasses of rats should be incinerated, as there is danger of spreading trichinosis if they are merely thrown into garbage cans.

A. VanDuzer resumed his work at Young's barber shop today after an absence of several weeks due to a heart attack. He is much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Peterson moved into their new home up near the Nevada City reservoirs the latter part of last week.

Billings Goes Free

Twenty-three years ago Warren K. Billings entered Folsom prison. He was on New York police records as a burglar; he had served one California prison term as a dynamiter; he was beginning a life stretch for first degree murder. At first he was unruly in Folsom—a rule-breaker, a "tough con." Of late years he has been a model prisoner, has acquired an education and a trade. Now, his debt to society cancelled, a middle-aged Billings is free.

The slow years change all men, and Billings, by all accounts should be a vastly changed man. He has announced his wish to marry and settle down to a job and home life. And he has doubtless noted, with some cynicism—from the case of his fellow "martyr" Mooney—that once you are free from "persecution" you are personally forgotten. Tom Mooney was forgotten so quickly after his relase less than a year ago that no one person in ten thousand knew where he was last week until he telegraphed congratulations to Billings from Pennsylvania! So it will be with Billings. There was much division of public opinion over his guilt, but now half his normal life is over, and it will be well for him if he carries out his program of retirement to a useful, obscure, workaday life. —Contributed.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By BARBARA PHARISS

Saturday afternoon the Nevada City Yellowjackets met the Gridley Bulldogs in a return contest at Gridley. The local team seemed to have lost all their pep and from the first touchdown did not make any showing.

SHARPS AND FLATS CLUB

The Sharps and Flats club held their first meeting Friday noon. This is a group composed of the members of Girls Chorus, Boys Chorus, and Harmony. Luburn Williams, last year's president was in charge. Officers were nominated and elected. They are: President, Bob Schmidt; vice president, Hobert Childers; secretary, Jane Bennett and treasurer, Bettie Olsen.

The club has many plans in view, such as a Christmas dance, variety show and other programs.

ELECTRIC SCORE BOARD

The sale of magazine subscriptions is now over. A publishing company made a proposition in which the school was to receive some money from the sales and get an electric scoreboard for the gym. The required amount was not raised. The sophomores and juniors sold $89.30 worth, and the freshmen and juniors $44.75. The total is $134.25, of which $78.35 goes to the publisher and $55.90 to the student body. There was a contest between the classes also to see who could sell the most. Elizabeth Lavalley will receive a Parker pen and pencil set from the publishing company. The student body now plans to make the money needed for the scoreboard by having a carnival in the gym soon. Bob Schmidt is in charge.

ASSEMBLY

The assembly was held Friday in the study hall. The vice president Elsie Schrieber was in charge. Teachers and students announcements were given after which a short pep rally was held in charge of Bettie Presley. Jane Bennett, Margie Keckler and Mrs. Libbey, led several school songs. Tryouts for song and yell leaders will be held at the next assembly.

H. Smith of Grass Valley who was operated upon for appendicitis last week is very ill. He is the husband of the former Miss Neita Botting, daughter of the late Tom Botting and Mrs. Gertrude Botting who lived in Nevada City many years.

Marvin Weeks of Auburn who was operated upon last Wednesday for appendicitis in the Nevada City Sanitarium, is making a splendid recovery. His wife is the former Miss Lena Ghidotti and she is staying with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. John Ghidotti, while her husband is recovering.

Mrs. Julie Manion returned to her home in North Bloomfield Wednesday after a few day's visit here. She has rented a house in this city and with her sister, Miss Mary Purcell will move here about the first of November to spend the winter. They will come here to be out of deep snow during the winter season.

Mrs. Jack Norton is quite ill at her home on Gold Flat.

A. P. GIANNINI SAYS, MAN MUST WORK TO EAT

Thirty five years ago, A. P. Giannini, a native son of California, founded what today is the statewide Bank of America, fourth largest in the nation and eighth in world rank. By enterprise and sheer hard work he has created lifetime career jobs and old-age security for nine thousand persons and their dependents, and has built an institution which has contributed substantially to the growth and wealth of this state. He learned about economics the "hard way," through practical experience, through the realistic facing and solving of problems under all sorts of conditions.

In the light of that experience he now makes the following statement of his position on the Retirement Life Payments Act now before the voters of California:

By A. P GIANNINI

Chairman of the Board, Bank of America.

I have been asked many times what I thought of the Retirement Life Payments Act. Even more frequently has my position and that of the Bank of America been incorrectly stated by supporters of the proposed law. In order that there may be no chance hereafter for misunderstanding or misrepresentation, I wish to make my position perfectly clear.

If the Retirement Life Payments Act had the slightest chance of doing the good things its promoters say it will, if it would do more good than harm, I certainly would be in favor of it. But unless all past human experience is worthless, the effect of the Act, if passed, would bring only hardship to the people of California. Most of all, it would not benefit elderly people, many of whom have been cruelly deceived into believing that purchasing power can be invoked by the ballot box.

Increasing the medium of exchange by an issue of fictitious dollars does not mean that automatically a parallel increase of hams and shoes and homes immediately springs into existence. Every dollar of real money must be backed by something of value, something that has been produced. That is why money is hard to get—why we have to work for it. Money is not just arbitrarily printed, even by the federal government. Every printed dollar is secured by gold or silver, or by the strength and stability of the United States of America.

Neither money nor credit is "created". It is generated—by producers.

I believe in adequate provision for those whose advancing age deprives them of the ability to support themselves. For proof of this I point to the Bank of America retirement plan, under which our employees retire at 65 on a liberal monthly compensation determined by the employees' producing value during the productive years. Over these years some of the fruits of production have been conserved—Saved—for consumption in the non-productive years. There you have the only sound principle of security—savings.

However, workers in many fields cannot participate in this type of voluntary old-age security, therefore some form of social retirement insurance is desirable. This already has been put into effect by the federal government in its Social Security plan, and I think the federal government is the proper agency for it. If left to the individual states, we would soon have a multiplicity of plans, varying as to conditions and amounts and giving rise to migrations of the elderly to states with the most liberal awards. Some states would not be above neglecting the responsibility entirely in the hope of pushing off their aged on other states.

I am nearly seventy years of age myself. In those years I have learned that all the food I have eaten, all the clothes I have worn, everything I have consumed or used I have had because some one worked to produce them and because in turn I worked to pay the producers for their labor.

I know what it is to work, not only with my head but with my hands. I have always known that if I did not work, I did not eat; and that is the case for virtually every able-bodied citizen and always will be.

Every mouthful of food one eats has to be worked and paid for by someone. At the bottom of things it is paid for by exchange of work, not by magic; there is no other recipe.

So who would pay for Ham and Eggs, for keeping able-bodied men above fifty in work-free idleness, even in greater luxury than most of those who have to work to support them? It would be all the rest of the people, young and old. There is no escaping it. Something does not come for nothing. The day has not come and never will when man can pull himself up by his bootstraps.

Bankers and other business men and women of the state know the ways of life from the best teacher of all, experience. They know the disappointments, the misery, the chaos which would immediately result should the proposal become a law. They know the dangers of tinkering with money.

So they have said that even should the proposed Retirement Life Payments Act become law, they cannot traffic in its warrants. This is equally true of Bank of America.

Some people who do not understand the nature of money may resent this statement. It cannot be helped. We cannot further the deception of the aged. We must do all we can to preserve California and protect its industrious citizens from the confiscation of their resources by fictitious money.

'IN NAME ONLY' ATTRACTION AT NEVADA, THURS.

The eternal triangle is analyzed, refurbished and re-assembled in a sparkling, stimulating guise in "In Name Only," which will be the Nevada Theatre's attraction Thursday and Friday.

"In Name Only" is particularly notable for its stellar cast, which includes Caroe Lombard, Cary Grant and Kay Francis, an unmatched aggregation of talent this season. Their roles in this stirring dramatic entertainment are a startling departure from their recent characterizations, but reminiscent of their early, fame winning portrayals. Miss Francis and Grant are cast as an unhappily wedded pair, she a money-hungry socialite who married Grant only for the luxurious life his wealth could afford her.

Mrs. Ashley Lillard, wife of Colonel Lillard, retired, and Mrs. Charles Lilly, wife of the publisher of the Sacramento Union, with a party of friends from Sacramento, were visitors in Nevada City Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jackson, Jr., motored to San Jose over the past week end and attended the big ball game between Santa Clara and St. Mary's.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keene and Keene's mother, Mrs. J. P. Keene returned Thursday from a three day stay in San Francisco and visit to the fair.

GIANT KING PROPERTY

Tests of ore trucked to the Spring Hill mine from the Giant King property at Washington proved the property to warrant construction of a mill. All mining has ceased and work is being rushed on the big mill to get it installed as soon as possible for active operation.

Miss Sally Parsons of Lynn, Mass., arrived last Tuesday and is visiting her brother, Charles Parsons, and Mrs. Parsons. Today she left for San Francisco and will spend this week attending the fair.
